A World at War—We are Forever Grateful!

“Let us solemnly remember the sacrifices of all those who fought so valiantly, on the seas, in the air, and on foreign shores, to preserve our heritage of freedom, and let us reconsecrate ourselves to the task of promoting an enduring peace so that their efforts shall not have been in vain.”

The men and women of Cuyahoga Heights answered the call to arms. During World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam, the Gulf Wars, peacetime and beyond, many men and women volunteered and responded to the draft to serve the United States. Those who were immigrants were given citizenship upon entering the service and fighting for their new homeland.

The marble memorial at the village hall was dedicated in 1948 in tribute to all resident men and women who served in the military. It is the scene of our annual Memorial Day Service.

CUYAHOGA HEIGHTS, a village of 700 residents, is an industrial empire within itself. Twenty-eight large and small plants are turning out approximately $10,000,000 worth of war materials per month, and a recent survey revealed these plants now have about $60,000,000 in incompleting war contracts.

Leaving the E. 55th street car at the end of the line and walking toward the Village Hall at 4863 E. 71st street, I passed some of these busy plants. These were Benjamin Moore & Co., Harris-Seybold-Potter Co., Cuyahoga Foundry Co., Broadhead-Garrett Co., Angell Nail & Chaplet Co. and Federal Foundry & Supply Co.

These and others, along with such large plants as those of American Steel & Wire Co., Aluminum Co. of America and Republic Steel Corp., exist in a village the area of which is little more than three square miles and which has a general tax rate of $1.32.

In a community of about 175 homes and 38 factories, there is a school valued at approximately $800,000, a village hall valued at $125,000, and a comparatively new fire station worth about $125,000. These were built in 1938, 1935 and 1942, respectively.

Things Look Bright

Cuyahoga Heights was incorporated in 1919. Its tax duplicate valuation has jumped in 12 years from 13 to 42 millions. According to Isaac G. Kennedy, who has been mayor during this 12-year period, "the village is carrying no burdensome debt and things look bright for discharging what indebtedness there is."

With wartime prosperity adding to the growth of a peacetime prosperity, the village finds itself with only one handicap. There is very little room in Cuyahoga Heights for 4661 E. 71st, is one of the village's oldest residents. She was born 86 years ago near the canal at the southern end of the village.

Miss Evans, daughter of Councilman Joseph Evans, lives at 4912 E. 71st and is a high school senior. Two brothers are in uniform. Pvt. Joseph Jr. is at Jacksonville, Fla., and Cadet Walter J. is at Del Monte, Cal. Pvt. Joseph recently wrote to ask for his accordion.

The day may come when Miss Kregar and Miss Evans will not have to "swim" under a sprinkler. Subject to the will of the village, plans are under way to erect a large enclosed swimming pool after the war. Present specifications call for a two-story building and this will be designed and dedicated as a memorial to the veterans of this war and the last one. If the villages give their okay, there will be nothing in this region to surpass it.

50 Are Servicemen

Servicemen from the village in this war, to whom the pool would be dedicated, now number 50. "I am proud to be the first one on the honor roll in front of the village hall," wrote Allan Steiger, a petty officer stationed at Norfolk, Va. Now driving a truck, he wants to get out to sea. He lived at 4919 E. 71st.

A son, Donald Bruce, was born to Pvt. Bruno Guidotti six weeks ago. Pvt. Guidotti, who is stationed at Harvard, Neb., was home for the event. His wife lives at 7145 Marcellina court.

Sgt. H. Farrar Corp. K. Farrar

Farrar are the sons of Louis S. Farrar, who has been village treasurer for five years. The corporal is at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., and the sergeant at Shaw Field, S. C. They lived at 4858 E. 71st.

Mrs. Farrar, the boys' mother, who is an air warden, said Monday's alert demonstrated that more women could be used in civilian defense. She said the Cuyahoga Heights Women's Club, of which Mrs. Olive Earl is president, has done good work sending gifts to servicemen, but that women in the village have no organized Red Cross production group.

Now Recovered

from nearby plants. While they train, these workers are producing war materials on a subcontract basis.

Teachers Take War Jobs

Eight men and a woman from the school's faculty are doing war work and some of them, including the principal, are in the machine shop class. In the picture, left to right at the lathe, are Miss Henrietta Strayer, physical education teacher, and Albert Thiem, instructor.

Many village women work in the war plants. Two of these are seen at a turret lathe in the picture. Left to right they are: Mrs. Mary Falugi, 7133 Marcellina, and Mrs. Gorina Pallini, 5065 E. 71st. They are employed at Grant Products Co., a small wartime plant located in the old fire station. Associated with Grant Products is Councilman Edwin O. Klass, founder of Klaas Machinery Co. The Willow Freeway will go smack dab through the old fire station.

The village hall has pleasant of-lunch hour Wednesday to bowl against Stanley Chase, who works at St. Mary's Cemetery, Chief Baur is a good bowler, but Mr. Chase is in the 300 class. In the picture, Mayor Kennedy keeps score while Chief Baur (right) looks worried. During his 12 years in office, Chief Baur has brought 1046 cases to court. Fines above $2 were imposed upon 531 of these. The village officials point to this record as an indication that there is a minimum of crime.

An example of neighborliness between towns is shown in the fact that Cuyahoga Heights firemen are teaching volunteers in Newburgh Heights how to use their new 500-gallon pumper. The new engine is being kept temporarily in the Cuyahoga Heights fire house beside the 1000-gallon pumper recently purchased by Cuyahoga. An industrial empire needs fire protection, especially in wartime.
