Financial Update

As we enter the final quarter of 2026, I would like to provide residents with an update on the Village of Cuyahoga Heights' financial position and some of the major investments and initiatives taking place throughout our community.

The Village continues to maintain a strong focus on responsible financial management, long-term planning, and maintaining the services and quality of life our residents have come to expect. Throughout the year, we have continued to monitor revenues and expenditures closely while moving forward with several significant capital projects and community investments.

2026 Financial Update

Through July 31, the Village has received approximately 63% of its budgeted annual income tax revenue. This is an important source of funding for the Village and continues to be monitored closely throughout the year.

On the expenditure side, approximately 52% of the Village's annual budget had been expended as of July 31. At this point in the year, expenditure remains within the overall budgetary expectations, and the Fiscal Office continues to work with department heads and administration to monitor spending through the remainder of 2026.

As we approach the final months of the year, we will continue to carefully evaluate revenues, expenditures, capital needs, and future obligations as we begin preparing the 2027 operating budget.

Investing in Our Community

Some of the most visible investments this year have been the renovation projects at Klima Gardens and Toscana Hall. The goal of these investments is not simply to construct and update facilities, but to create places where the community can come together and provide value to our residents.

The Village has also continued to invest in infrastructure improvements, including the Courts Sewer Separation Improvement Project and associated utility work. These projects represent significant financial commitments, but they are necessary investments in maintaining our infrastructure and preparing our community for the future.

The Fiscal Office will continue working to ensure that the Village's financial resources are managed carefully.
